

Beatriz Gasiba takes the helm of Montgomery County's premier nonprofit dedicated to education, health, and social services

Photo Caption: Beatriz Gasiba, Executive Director of ACLAMO

Montgomery County, PA – ACLAMO's Board of Directors is proud to announce the appointment of Beatriz Gasiba as Executive Director, effective November 17, 2025. She has been with ACLAMO since 2019 and served as Interim Executive Director since February 2025.

"Beatriz has demonstrated exceptional leadership during her time as Interim Executive Director," said Chad Workman, Chair of ACLAMO's Board of Directors. "Her passion for our mission and her ability to guide the organization with clarity and heart make her the ideal person to lead ACLAMO into our next chapter. On behalf of the Board, I am proud to welcome her into this new role. We are confident she will continue advancing our mission and expanding our outreach in the community we have proudly served for over 49 years."

Gasiba brings more than 20 years of experience in both the nonprofit and private sectors, with expertise in strategic planning, project management, and organizational leadership. She has successfully guided programs, developed partnerships, and empowered staff and volunteers.

As Interim Executive Director, Gasiba led initiatives to streamline operations, strengthen community partnerships, and enhance organizational processes. She also focused on maintaining financial stability.

ACLAMO's Impact

ACLAMO is Montgomery County's only full-service agency providing award-winning educational programs, equitable health and wellness services, and compassionate social outreach to marginalized families.

Last year alone, ACLAMO served 19,426 individuals. This reinforces its commitment to ensuring every community member has access to resources for a healthy, dignified life. ACLAMO operates across three locations—in Norristown, Pottstown, and Lansdale—supported by a dedicated team of 49 employees and more than 1,000 volunteers annually.

"It is an honor to officially serve as Executive Director of ACLAMO," said Gasiba. "I am deeply committed to continuing our mission of empowering individuals and families, maintaining financial stability, and building on the strong foundation of programs and services that make ACLAMO impactful every day."

Gasiba holds a Bachelor's degree in Computer Science from La Universidad Nueva Esparta (Caracas, Venezuela) and an MBA in Marketing from Mercer University's Stetson School of Business & Economics (Atlanta, GA). Her honors include the Outstanding Georgia Citizen Award and Woman of the Year recognition from La Vision newspaper.

About ACLAMO Founded in 1977, ACLAMO is a Montgomery County (PA) 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization dedicated to providing educational programs, social services, and access to health and wellness initiatives for marginalized community members.

For more information, contact:

Dr. Doug Ferguson, Director of Development and Communications

Email: douglasf@aclamo.org

Website: www.aclamo.org

January 19, 2026